INITIAL SITUATION	The cross-border area of the Carnic Alps Geopark needs further impetus to be valued even more. This project focuses on mining history, an aspect of the geological heritage that has been little explored.
PROJECT OBJECTIVES	Mining is both a geological and a historical site that testifies to the relationship between man and the territory. The research results will result in numerous dissemination activities beyond the region. The theme of "mining" makes it possible to create a very attractive offer for the public: Mining excursions, educational activities for schools, offers of summer entertainment for families, exhibitions and workshops to deepen knowledge of the area. In addition, measures are implemented to increase awareness of the transboundary geopark.
PROJECT CONTENTS	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Project management and communication• Research work on the investigation of prehistoric mining sites on both sides of the Carnic Alps• Public relations and tourism enhancement of the research results• School projects and implementation of the educational programme• Measures to improve the perception and awareness of the Geopark
